THE HOME TOWNERS
THE GREEN LIGHTS ARE ON IN M. KINNEY AND COLLIN COUNTY

WITH THURSDAY'S issue, the Weekly Democrat-Gazette goes into its 75th year of continuous publication. We are deeply grateful to every subscriber and advertising patron for continued patronage and friendship. The present owner and publisher is Mrs. Tom W. Perkins Sr., the active management being under the direction of her sons, Your Home Towners—Pete and Tom.

The Weekly was established when two local weekly papers—the Weekly Democrat and the Weekly Gazette were consolidated under the firm name of Perkins & Wilson.

Like its companion publication, the Daily Courier-Gazette in its 60th year, it stands for definite principles—for Christian homes, for morality, better schools, better churches and a society in conformity to the ideals and fundamentals upon which our Great Republic was founded by the patriot fathers. It is tolerant in its political views and broad in its sympathies. It always stands for good citizenship and will continue to be an outspoken foe to every hindrance thereto.

We hope to make the year ahead a better one in journalistic service. Help us to make it so. In pursuance of these ideals and laudable aspiration and, in the words of another "we will not take our hands from the plow until the sun goes down."

Kiwanis "March Of Dimes" Nets $63 Saturday

The McKinney Kiwanis Club colelcted $63.00 in dimes — both Roosevelt and pre-Roosevelt varieties—for the 1958 March of Dimes against polio.

The Martin-Kemp Lumber Company of McKinney generously furnished a 16 foot one-by twelve board and carpenters' horses in front of Central National Bank, and a black cloth from McKinney Dry Goods was placed theron, and before Saturday was over there were four solid rows of dimes up and down this board. The project was manned by local Kiwanians Obe McCallum, Darrell Orr, Sid Commander (who furnished an attractive sign for the Mile of Dimes) and Charles Beene.

O. Ed Smith, Jr., March of Dimes Campaign Chairman, was well pleased with the results of this effort on the part of the Kiwanis Club, and he is in hopes that the Kiwanians will make this Mile of Dimes board an annual activity of the local club. Passers-by the cloth covered board were generous in their donations of dimes and the sixteen footer was well covered with the ten cent pieces by mid-afternoon. The Collin County local chapter expresses appreciation to the McKinney Kiwanis Club for their help in the 1958 Campaign.

Porch Parade Nets $262 For March Of Dimes

O. Ed Smith, Jr., 1958 March of Dimes Campaign Chairman, announced today that the Porch Light March last Thursday night, conducted by Boyd High School students between 7 and 8 p.m., collected $262.72 for the fight against polio. This collection is in line with Porch Light donations of past years, and indicates that the people of McKinney are continuing their support of the March of Dimes, in all of its projects.

Chairman Smith expressed the appreciation of the Collin County Chapter to the newspapers and radio for the excellent publicity given to the Porch Light project, and to Finney Bakery for the use of their sound truck. Dan McClure and Gibson Cobb gave an afternoon of their time to travel about the city in the Finney Bakery truck and remind the citizenry of the Porch collections.

Thanks are once again in order to the faculty sponsors of the youth organizations who carried out the project: to Miss Susie Carlisle and Mrs. Retta McCoy of the Future Homemakers of America; to E. A. Randles and R. J. Smith of the Future Farmers of America; and to Ed Luscomb of the Allied Youth. But most of all, thanks to the young high school students of these organizations who turned out 100 percent to cover the city efficiently and effectively, giving up their time to make a worthwhile project possible. Coffee Day Nets $267.61 For March Of Dimes

Twenty-four establishments selling coffee last Wednesday took in $267.61 for the March of Dimes, according to Campaign Chairman O. Ed Smith Jr. Once again this project has proved to be one of the most popular and successful in the March of Dimes Campaign. The owners of the various establishments were most cooperative and helpful in making the Coffee Day a success, and of course, the coffee drinkers made up the other half of the team that gave generously to the fight against polio.

In listing the various institutions and the amount of their coffee sales proceeds, Smith pointed out that since the places vary in size and in the volume of coffee sold, the dollar volume is not to be considered as in any way a comparative measure. Each coffee seller donated generously and each establishment's effort was needed to make the Coffee Day project a success. Moreover, many of the places listed recently participated in another coffee day donation for another worthy cause.

Joe and Freda's Cafe, $38.88; Town House Restaurant, $33.55 North Side Drug, $26; Continental Bus Cafe, $24.46; Martin's Cafe, $20.03; Commercial Hotel Coffee Shop, $12.80; City Coffee Shop, $11.83; Shaw's Cafe, $10.76; Dutton's Cafe, $10.70; McKinney Drug, $9.24; Lander's Triangle Treat, $8.78.

Smith Drug, $7.83; Ed's Drive-In, $7.61; Wood's Cafe, $7.40; Bill Smith's Grill, $7.25; Edith's Cafe, $5; Red Top Grill, $4.97; Haney's Cafe, $4.34; Steffey's Jiffy Dog and M&M Sandwich Shop, $3 each; Ed Coffey's Cafe, $2.89; The Smoke House, $2.46; Crowder's Eat Spot, $2.10; Dairy Maid, $1.73; and Ledbetter's Drive-In, $1.

Rufus Vandygriff, owner of Vel-Mar Root Beer stand of McKinney, assisted Chairman Smith in the conduct of the Coffee Day project.

"We are living in the most challenging day man has ever known" Mayor R. L. (Bob) Thornton told members of the McKinney Chamber of Commerce, and their guests, at the annual banquet Tuesday evening in the First Methodist Church. Banqueters, familiar with these annual meetings, deem it the best in the history of the CC.

The large dining room was taxed for space, with an over-flowing crowd in attandance.

Rev. Glendell Jones, pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation, preceding the turkey dinner which was served by candlelight. Hints of spring were expressed in the attractive table decorations which included trailing ivy, mixed blossoms, and brass candelabra holding yellow tapers. J. H. Young of Terrell provided organ selections during the dinner hour.

A. H. Eubanks, retiring from the presidency of an organization an office held by his father, the late A. H. Eubanks Sr., some 25 years ago, presided over the program. He expressed thanks to his committees in planning the banquet, and introduced the program for the evening.

Out-of-town guests introduced were as follows:

Sherman, Mac Kyle, assistant CC manager, Tom Claycomb.

Reviewing briefly the history of the McKinney Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Eubanks, stated that the organization had continued to grow because of the faith and determination of those who wanted McKinney to progress.

The annual banquet is always an occasion for expressing "thanks" for a job well done. These expressions, began when Gelden Roberts, in behalf of the Directors, presented a bouquet of red roses to Mrs. Clara Reddell, the most efficient office secretary.

Audie Turrentine, who headed the membership committee during the year, had the privilege of making a special presentation—a life membership—to Miss Moses. During the past year the Chamber enrolled the largest membership in its history, 92 of whom were secured by Miss Moses. He praised her outstanding work on the committee as he presented her the plaque, for this service.

Miss Moses, cashier of the Collin County National Bank, has been a part of McKinney's business life for several years, and recently actively interested in the civic affairs of the community. Her faith in the future of our city and county are manifest by the large number of new members to whom she has "sold McKinney." Her reward, is not only the honor bestowed upon her by the local organization, but for the spirit of cooperation and of "working together" of our entire citizenship. Miss Moses graciously accepted the plaque implying "if any of you want to join the Chamber of Commerce, I'll be most happy to sign you up."

Another highlight of the evening was presentation of the annual Daily Courier-Gazette and Weekly Democrat-Gazette award to some McKinney person, or persons, for outstanding community service. This event is always looked forward to in that the recipient is not revealed before banquet time. Tom W. Perkins Jr., representing the publications, held the audience in suspension for only a few moments for as he enumerated outstanding and unselfish traits of the recipient, they knew that none other than Charles M. Cooper could have earned such honor. Mr. Cooper, a retired business man, for many years manager and co-owner of the J. C. Penney Company store here, has never retired from his interest in the civic, social and religious life of McKinney, and the five judges, unknown to each other, were unanimous in submitting his name for the honor.

Mr. Cooper was instrumental in the Salvation Army endeavors here years ago. He has been a layman in the Methodist Church, active in all of its functions, throughout his lifetime. His interest in the Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club, Boy Scouts, and other organizations of McKinney have been continuous. There has never been a person more interested in the youth of our town, and through his efforts an Allied Youth movement was started here which has grown into one of the most worthy organizations among our High School boys and girls.

Added tribute to Mr. Cooper's exemplary life, was revealed in letters and telegrams, read by Jim Ferguson, local J. C. Penney manager and long-time friend of Mr. Cooper. These messages expressed congratulations from former associates, including A. W. Hughes, J. C. Penney, Clarence Kerby, C. E. Beaty, Marvin Hope, Bill Algary, T. D. Witherspoon and Travis Gooch. Glen D. Bryan, a former McKinney boy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bryan, began his career with the Penney Company in the local store, and came here especially for the banquet to honor his former employer.

Mr. Cooper, very humbly accepted the plaque, explaining his association with the youth had been a privilege and it was his desire to see them bring honor to the town in years to come.

J. M. Whisenant, president of the Collin County National Bank, introduced the guest speaker, Mayor Thornton, one of the most eminent bankers in the Southwest.

Teenage Hijacker Arrested In South Collin Sunday

Patrolman Don Nowlin, Sheriff Floyd Williams and deputies, all of McKinney and City Marshals from Plano and Wylie, joined other North Texas police units in the capture of a Garland teenager Sunday night about 11 o'clock, following a hi-jacking at Garland.

The youth was picked up in a field, Southwest of Wylie, at the Dallas County line by two highway patrolmen in a darkened car.

The officers had searched the area for three hours after two filling station attendants at Garland were kidnaped and robbed of $35, and their pants.

Fred Clark, the filling station attendant, said the bandit walked into the place about 8 p. m. and asked if he could wait to hitch a ride to Garland. Then, Clark said, he pulled a gun and took $35 from the cash drawer.

The bandit forced Clark and Nance Mason, a Negro helper, into the station's pickup truck and made Clark drive to three miles North of Garland. There he forced Clark and Mason to take off their pants and threw them in the truck, which he drove off.

The abandoned truck was found stuck in a muddy field, about a mile from where the youth was captured. He was turned over to Dallas County officers.

IT'S INCOME TAX TIME AGAIN

February 15 is an important tax date for most farm and ranch families. February 15 is the deadline for filing your income tax return if you qaulify as a farmer by having received at least two-thirds of your total gross income from agricultural operations. Farmers who filed an estimate (1040 ES) and paid their estimated tax by January 15, have until April 15 to file a final return for 1957. Here are some timely tax tips for farm and ranch operators.

If you sold breeding or dairy stock from your bred during 1957, be sure to report these in the proper place. These animals must be reported on Schedule D rather than Schedule F. If breeding or dairy stock are kept for 12 months or more, the sales qualify for long term capital gains treatment—and are 50 percent taxable. Consult a competent tax accountant if you need help on these and other transactions.

Here is a word of caution for taxpayers who sold off a portion of their breeding cattle, sheep or other livestock in 1956 and took the "drought sales" option of not reporting such sales. Congress passed the law allowing taxpayers to withhold reporting such income provided they would buy other stock as replacements by the end of 1957. If this income from 1956 "drought sales" was invested in similar livestock in 1957, a statement to that efect must be attached to the tax return for 1957.

But, if any taxpayer failed to locate suitable livestock for replacements and still expects to so use funds from "drought sales" for 1956; he must obtain an extension of time beyond that allowed by law. This consent for any extension must be obtained by writing the District Director of Internal Revenue Service. The taxpayer must set forth the reasons why it has not been possible to re-stock during the past year so that the request is logical and reasonable.

Many taxpayers are not certain about when their children cease to be a dependent. Even sons or daughters who married during the 1957. You are entitled to one taxable year may be dependents for exemption for each of your children (including step-children and those legally adopted) if during the taxable year the child:

1. Received more than one-half of his or her support from you, and
2. Had gross income of less than $600. This $600 limitation does not apply if the child is under 19 years of age, or if he (she) was enrolled in an accredited school for five months or more during the year, and
3. Did not file a joint return with her husband (or his wife) for the year.

Information on these and many other points on farmers' tax questions are explained in detail in the 1958 Farmers' Tax Guide. You may have a copy by calling at your County Extension Office located in the courthouse. This publication is written in simple language and will be helpful for your reference during the year. Study of the reference should aid the farmer to raise questions on many tax-saving items with his tax consultant.

ROSES FOR HOME.

Roses are probably the most popular of all garden flowers. They are adapted to many purposes and are grown in every section of the country.

Varieties are available for plantings on lawns and borders, for arbors, trellises, bedding, hedges, ground covers, as specimen tree roses, and for cut flowers. They are grown not only in areas where the climate is especially favorable, but also in areas where success can be attained with extra care.

Some wild species of roses are very desirable and may be found in many gardens. They are gradually being replaced, however, by named varieties that are developed by plant breeders. Newly developed varieties are offered each year in garden catalogs in a wide range of colors and forms. A difficult problem for the beginner is choosing from among the many kinds of roses he finds available.

Through research, new methods have been developed for controlling diseases and insects. Research has also resulted in improved cultural practices with respect to pruning, fertilizing, and the best method of cutting blooms.

More information on roses may be found in the bulletin "Roses for the Home," U.S.D.A. No. 25, call for a copy at the office in McKinney.

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS —of— THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

Coastal Bermudagrass plantings have been very successful the past year in the Blackland soils of our area, states Raymond McBay, Soil Conservation Service technician at McKinney. It produces a large amount of top quality forage when grown on fertile soil and makes good pasture or hay.

Cooperators of the Collin Soil Conservation District that have Coastal plantings are well pleased with the amount of grazing furnished during the summer months. W. B. Nicholson, near Celina, sodded approximately 28 acres in February of last year. By the middle of May, 15 head of cows were turned on this grass which provided them with good grazing during the summer. Mr. Nicholson states that a well prepared seedbed, fertilizer, and early sodding helped to make his planting a success. He plans to sod an additional acreage this spring to complete his pasture and waterway establishment. Others that plan to sod Coastal this spring are S. E. Campbell, Morris Morgan, Raymond Dalton, Tom Lane, Tom Roach, Carl Pratt and J. A. Davidson.

This year, a local root source is available for Coastal, as well as Common Bermuda. Several producers of these roots state that an ample supply of roots are available for those planning to sod. This sodding should be done as soon as possible while the roots are still dormant and sufficient moisture is present. Plantings made after the last of March many times result in failure due to insufficient moisture.

For additional information on Bermuda sources and sodding, contact your local Soil Conservation Service technicians.

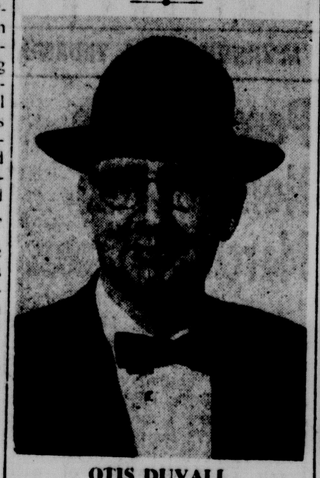
Otis Duvall Enters Race For Justice Of Peace, Precinct 1



OTIS DUVALL

I wish at this time to make formal announcement of my candidacy for the office of Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Collin County, Texas, subject to the Democratic Primary election which will be held July 26, 1958. I have never before asked for public office.

I grew up around Princeton, and spent all of my life in Collin County. I am married to the former Miss Veda Osburn and we reside at 406 West Davis Street, McKinney.

I am an active member of the First Baptist Church, enjoying the Fellowship of the church, and when called upon always do what I think is right.

For several years I have operated a cafe, being in my present location for the past 27 years. This has given me experience in handling and aperating a business and in meeting the public, which I think, helps to qualify me for the office of Justice of Peace.

I sincerely solicit your vote and influence in this campaign and if I am elected I will devote all of my time and attention to your needs in the office of Justice of the Peace.

Sincerely,
OTIS DUVALL.

T. E. Burnside To Run For Justice Of Peace, Precinct 1

T. E. BURNSIDE

My friends, I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for Justice of the Peace of Precinct 1, subject to Democratic Primary July 26, 1958.

It will be remembered by many that a few years ago, I made the race for this office, and ran second in a fiel dof three candidates, being defeated by the late right honorable Clyde Doyle.

I have had some experience in law enforcement, and I believe in the enforcement of our laws; but I also believe in tempering justice with mercy if the case justifies it. I am married and the father of a 12-year-old son. If I am elected and your son should be brought before me for some minor infraction of the laws, I shall deal with him as I would want by own son to be treated.

I have lived in Collin County nearly all my life and grew up on a farm in the Altoga community. My father being the late A. L. (Doc) Burnside, pioneer farmer of Collin County. I have been in various businesses here in town, and am presently engaged in the automobile business. I am also a veteran of World War II. I believe in all the churches of our city and county and I hold a position of leadership in one of our local churches.

I intend to make a fair campaign and ask your support on my own merits and qualifications. I shall try to see each of you personally during this time. I will appreciate your support and influence.

Respectfully,
T. E. BURNSIDE.

Independents Edge Austin College Team

In as thrilling a game as you could wish to see, the McKinney-Collin County All-Stars, a local independent basketball team, nosed out the Austin College "B" team of Sherman, Texas, 54-53, last Friday night at the Allen School Gymnasium. The game was played as a benefit for the 1958 March of Dimes campaign. O. Ed Smith, Jr., Campaign Chairman, announced that $67 was collected for the March of Dimes, as the people of Allen turned out in good numbers to support the fight against polio and in their effort to do so saw a very fine basketball program. In the preliminary game at 7 p. m. the Allen Mothers' team outscored the high school girls "B" team in a game that was a crowd-pleaser and which may become an annual event in Allen by popular demand.

The Collin County Independents, coached by J. L. Davis in the absence of Bobby Frizzell—who had to be with his Frisco High School team elsewhere—gave away a good bit of height to the Austin College boys, as well as a few years here and there, but the Independents outshot the college boys as they warmed up and found the range. The Collin County All-Stars, or McKinney Independents — they are known by both names—is a team made up of local young business men, coaches, and college students who like to play basketball in their spare time and are willing to play benefit games in behalf of worthy causes any time that such games may be arranged. The team is made up of excellent basketballers—boys who made the all-star teams of Collin county high schools just a few years ago—and is capable of giving any team in the North Texas area a good game. They generally arrange games with college "B" teams that do not play a regular conference schedule and with various teams in the Dallas industrial and business leagues. This local team is now playing it's "home" games in the Allen High School Gymnasium, but will play anywhere that a basketball court and a suitable opponent is available. This team is worthy of recognition and support in the McKiney area, as it will provide plenty of good basketball anytime it has the opportunity to play. Chairman Smith of the 1958 March of Dimes is trying to arrange other benefit games for this McKiney team to be played in the near future, and these games will be advertised in the local paper when scheduled.

Lou Lester's Austin College "B" boys gave a good account of themselves and assure the varsity of another good team next year. Coach Lester is a member of a Sherman Independent team that is also available for charity games, and can provide first class basketball entertainment.

Special thanks should also go to Allen Superintendent Lee Rountree, who arranged the game, and to Allen Coach Max Vaughan, who desipte illness, donated his services as referee to the game so that all proceeds could go to the March of Dimes. Vaughan was given able assistance in the officiating by Harold Wayne Carroll, player on the Allen High team.

As the score indicates, the Independents-Austin College game was nip-and-tuck all the way, the outcome being in doubt up to the final buzzer. The Austin College Kangaroos "B" team led at the half, 27-23, but the McKinney boys hit their stride in the final quarter.

Lions Trim Paris Wildcats By Score Of 49-35

Don Jenkins, Vic Petricka, and Bob Byrd led the McKinney Lions to a 49-35 victory over the Paris Wildcats Friday night at Caldwell Gym in a District 6-AAA basketball tilt.

Jenkins accounted for 14 points; Petricka had 13; and Byrd added 10 that proved too much for the visiting Wildcats.

Bailey was the big noise for Paris with 9 FG's and 2 FT's for 20 and the night's top scorer but he didn't have much assistance from his mates in the point-making department.

The Lions jumped into a 14-6 lead at the end of the first quarter and had a 23-14 advantage at intermission. At the end of the third, McKinney was out front, 32-25, and outscored Paris, 17-10 in the final period.

Farmers Lose To Cooper In District Game

Cooper handed the Farmersville Farmers a 47-37 defeat here Friday night in a District 14-A tussle.

Coach Harold Gann's Farmers jumped to a 11-9 first quarter lead only to fall behind the last stanza as the visiting team chalked up its sixth straight loop victory.

The Cooper girls were too much of a match for the Farmersville girls as they outshot the home team, 75-18.

Led by Larry Smith and Bill McGaha, Cooper remained a favorite to take the district crown. Both cagers came through with 14 points.

James Watson took the spotlight for Farmersville as the fine cagers poured in 14 points. Cooper went out in front, 19-15, at the half.

It was the 13th loss for the Farmers as they have picked up 15 victories this season. The Farmers have a 3-3 slate in league play.

Vernon Thompson of California, was in McKinney Saturday, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holland. He had been in Fort Worth the past several days, doing television work with the Fat Stock Show.

Mrs. Ownsby Gives Garden Club Program

Members of the Celina Garden Club were hostesses for a luncheon in the reception room of the First Presbyterian Church in Celina. Spring flowers were used for table decorations, and a color scheme of pink and white was carried out.

A book review, given by Mrs. Lee Ownsby, was the highlight of the program following the luncheon. Mrs. Ownsby reviewed the book "How to Make Cut Flowers Last" by Victoria Kasperski. Her hearers learned that when using garden flowers it is wise to "condition" them after cutting.

Mrs. Ownsby told her listeners: "First of all, do your cutting early in the morning or after sundown, carry a bucket of water with you, as placing the newly cut stems in water at once may lengthen the life of flowers several days. Use a sharp knife, never scissors. They bruise the tissues and hasten decay. Cut the flower stems with a long diagonal slant, so they can absorb the water more easily and can not come torest on the bottom of the container and cut off the water supply. Remove all foliage from the lower part of the stem and plunge the flowers in a pail of cool water up to their heads. Leave them in a cool place out of a draft from two to twelve hours. Some flowers, such as those with gummy or milky juices, should be singed at the cutting tip, either with flame or by dipping the base of the stem in boiling water. This seals in the juices and allows the intake of water. When cutting shrubs with hard woody stems, peel off the bark one inch or more from the end and split the end with a hammer to help it absorb the water. Split chrysanthemums and peony stems three to four inches from the end before placing them in water."

Chief Hansen Main Speaker At Fellowship Meet

By FRED DICKINSON

Chief Carl Hansen of the Dallas Police Department was the speaker at the men's fellowship supper of the First Christian Church here, Thursday night.

The supper was sponsored by the men of the church with an attendance of approximately 150 men, including numerous guests.

Chief Hansen was introduced by Mayor George W. Smith of McKinney, a former Dallas patrolman, who worked with the Dallas police head when he, too, was a patrolman.

Leroy Richardson presided over the meeting. An excellent barbecued venison meal was served. The venison was provided by Bob Calrk and Wilbur Thompson of the church congregation and prepared by Jack LaRoe.

In his address, Chief Hansen spoke at length of juvenile delinquency, publicity affecting police matters and public relations of police departments.

The vast percentage of our young people are good, he stated, but a small percentage present the juvenile problem. Fifty per cent of the juveniles handled through the Dallas Police Department have been handled one or more times before, he stated. "Often, we handle the same youngsters over and over and over again," he said. Chief Hansen told of how his records bureau is making a survey of men who have two or more charges against them before they are brought to trial—those out on bail who are charged again before they are brought to trial. The number is 478. Of these, 50 offenders are between 17 and 21 years of age.

Forty per cent of the crime in Dallas is committed by those from 16 to 25 years of age. The reform school for boys at Gatesville is so crowded that one boy has to be turned loose before another can be put in.

Juveniles arrested for car theft at the age of 16 number three times as many as those arrested for the same offense the age of 17. "They don't acquire the knowledge that this is wrong, overnight," the Chief said. "But they know at 17 they may be sent to the penitentiary. I have no pet theory to cure juvenile delinquency. I know we need thre types of programs—one to keep the good boy good. This is the type of work carried on by this church and other churches and the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts. We need another type of program to keep the potential criminal from going over the line and becoming one. This is much more difficult. The third type we need is a program to bring the boy already over the line back on the right side. This is even harder than the second case."

"We need to instill in the youngsters of today a respect for authority and a respect for other people's rights—both property and personal rights."

"There is need for a change towards the authority of the home, the church and the school. When we attain that, you will probably see a material drop in what we call juvenile delinquency."

W. W. Lynch, President of Texas Power & Light Company, and other directors of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation will meet with top scientists of General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corporation in San Diego next week.

The directors, who are presidents of the eleven Texas electric utility companies which compose the Foundation, will meet in California at the quarterly directors' meeting.

The Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and General Atomic are jointly sponsoring a four-year, $10 million research program in the field of controlled thermonuclear reactions. General Atomic has engaged some of the nation's leading scientists in this field.

A special building to house the scientists' experimental apparatus is now under construction in San Diego at the site of the multi-million dollar John Jay Hopkins Laboratory for Pure and Applied Science. The meeting will be held at the Laboratory site.

The directors will meet with Dr. Frederic de Hoffmann, Vice President of General Dynamics, Dr. Edward Creutz, director of research and Dr. Donald Kerst, director of the fusion project.

Local Sorority Aids March Of Dimes Drive

The appeal for assistance recently issued by the Collin County March of Dimes Chapter - an appeal for volunteer workers - was answered by the Omicron Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, a women's service sorority of the city.

This fine group of ladies offered their assistance to the fight against polio, and several of their members accepted one of the most tedious but nonetheless most necessary jobs in the March of Dimes campaign the counting of the money and the separation and rolling of the various coins. Three members of the sorority, Mrs. Leah Williams, Mrs. Wilma Scott, and Mrs. Dorothy Hays, spent many tedious hours after the Coffee Day and Porch Light projects counting and sacking the money. This task save the Campaign Director and the other chapter members much time and enables more time to be spent in planning and carrying out the projects.

In addition to donation of time, the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority made a generous donation in cash to the March of Dimes. Wilma Scott was able to enlist the services of her husband, Dennis, in the money counting task, while Gene Hays dropped in to serve in an advisory capacity and Newton Burkett furnished the money rolls from a local bank. Campaign Chairman O. Ed Smith Jr., takes this opportunity to thank these people and the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Bill Dungan Asks Re-Election As Local Representative

W. T. (Bill) DUNGAN

TO THE VOTERS AND CITIZENS OF COLLIN COUNTY.

I take this method of announcing that I will be a candidate for re-election to the State Legislature as your Local Representative from Collin County at the Democratic Primary on July 26, 1958.

I am the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dungan who are members of pioneer families of Collin County. My wife, the former Lena Pearl Nichols, and I live on our dairy farm just east of McKinney. We have five children and were recently blessed with two grandchildren. Both of us were reared in Collin County where we expect to live the rest of our lives. We have tried to do our share of civic work. I have served as President of the Board of Trustees of the McKinney Independent School District, President of the McKinney Chamber of Commerce, the Collin County Purebred Livestock Association, the Collin County Fair, and other organizations. I am a member of the Christian Church, the Masonic Lodge, the Farm Bureau, the Farmer's Union, and the North Texas Milk Producers Association. I have been in business in McKinney over 20 years, but have recently sold the major part of my grain and feed business. I feel that my experience as a farmer, livestockman, business man, school teacher, and civic worker helps me to understand the problems of the people of Collin County and Texas and enables me to vote and work for their interests.

I am grateful to you for electing me to represent Collin County in the Legislature in 1956, and I want you to know I consider it an honor to serve you, and invite you to contact me on any problems where I might be helpful. I served on the committees on Agriculture, Livestock and Stock Raising, Aeronautics, Federal Relations, and Game & Fisheries. Of course it was new to me, but I tried to vote for the best interests of the people of Collin County and Texas.. I was author and co-author of several bills including the Confederate Pension Bill, the Teacher Salary Bill, the R.E.A. Bill, and County Water Control and Improvement District which gives Collin County jurisdiction over its water resources.

With the experience I have had I feel that I can do you a better job next time, and I assure you that if I am re-elected, I will do my best for you. If do not get to see you personally before election, consider this my request for your vote and support which I will appreciate very much.

Sincerely,
BILL DUNGAN.

Students Get Much Personal Value From Reading Program

By H. D. MOUZON

In a preceeding article an effort was made to acquaint school patrons and parents of children who will be entering schools in McKinney in the near future with methods used in teaching the child how to read and it was pointed out that reading is considered to be a basic subject inasmuch as the child must be able to read in order to progress through other subjects to be encountered all the way through school.

David H. Russell, professor of education at the University of California, has this to say regarding the reading program as followed in modern schools:

"The modern school program still recognizes the importance of reading but no longer expects a few books to develop it. Teachers everywhere want children to read well. They know that this is not achieved by the intensive reading of only one book a term." Prof. Russell goes on to say that there is considerable research evidence to suggest that a wide variety of reading materials contributes to desirable growth in reading ability and that children who use many different books, magazines, charts, and papers develop a richer store of ideas and, at the same time, seem superior in many of the more mechanical aspects of reading such as quality of eye movements and rate of reading.

It is also pointed out that variety alone is not enough but that, in addition to several series of books in the classroom, individual books on the classroom table or in the library, charts and current magazines are most useful in developing good readers. These helps, together with wise guidance by skillful teachers, are developing better readers among our school children.

In McKinney schools reading instruction is divided, basically, into two programs, one one for primary and another for intermediate grades. Primary grades consist of the first, second and third while fourth, fifth and sixth make up the intermediate.

In the primary grades the reading program is characterized by a wide range of activities which help to prepare children for the complex task of reading and which involve simple recognition of words and sentences designed to promote growth in certain elementary abilities.

The intermediate grade program is based upon primary-grade achivevements and, actually, does not differ radically from that of the primary grades. At the same time, as children mature new activities and materials are brought into use. Many children in the intermediate grades have only reading abilities but, in time, they are able to develop beyond the mere acquisition of new words and the reading of simple paragraphs to rather mature habits such as adapting the method of reading to the purpose involved and to the gaining of many worth while experiences.

A few of the characteristics of the intermediate reading program in contrast to that of the primary grades are as follows:

Older pupils do more independent reading. Teacher guidance is important but less detailed than in primary grades.

Reading tastes are more individual. Hobbies and interests begin to afefct choice of material.

There is more emphasis on content. Children do more reading to gather information or to solve problems in connection with other school activities.

There is less emphasis on oral reading.

Pupils use a greater variety of materials such as newspapers, pamphlets, reference books and other library aids.

Pupils approach reading with many different purposes and so develop abilities related to many different types of comprehension. They learn to distinguish between methods of reading a science article and a short story. They read in different ways for purposes such as getting the main through, following directions, skimming for a specific fact, and getting exact details.

As these characteristics suggest, boys and girls get more personal value from their reading. Their capacity for emotional response increases and they gain greater understanding of other peoples and their own problems.

Parents of children in the intermediate grades, as is the case with primary grade parents, are invited to visit the schools and learn more of the methods used in teaching reading. By so doing they are better able to cooperate with teachers in developing in their children good reading habits. The same is true of parents of junior-high-age children where the reading program is continued. It should be remembered that, all the way through elementary school and on into high school, parents and parents and teachers are partners. They are partners in the job of providing for the most wholesome development of children. The full cooperation of parents in all matters having to do with the teaching of boys and girls is coveted by all teachers. One important way in which parents can help the reading program is by providing plenty of the proper reading material for use of the child.

--Mayor Thornton

and beloved Mayor of Dallas in his third term.

The jovial, kindly banker, who loves his work in Chamber of Commerce activities and is most optimistic of the future progress of our country, praised the local organization, especially those persons who had been so honorably rewarded for their endeavors. Some 50 years ago Mayor Thornton lived in McKinney, at that time a very young man, working in the old Mississippi Store located, where the Central National Bank now stands. He stated it was inspiring to see awards given for a job well done, as that is what it takes to build a good city.

Throughtout his talk he compared the present day trend with those of yesteryear—emphasizing "this is a new era, a new day in which your town will be involved like every other town in the country. America is on the march." At this point the speaker quoted statistics prophesying future growth in population, as well as an economic growth. "Everything will be better, there will be a tremendous building program" and he elaborated on the miles of new homes under construction in his home city "Big D". "This will affect you too as McKinney will be building houses by the 100's." In the decade to come he could see the population becoming more urbanwise, as he outlined the many people working in the larger centers, who are establishing homes in the smaller towns. This he attributed to the super highways of today, pointing out that distance is being measured by minutes, rather than miles.

Mixing bits of humor throughout his talk, he kept close to his point of the present-day challenge to our young people, stressing economic factors, science and the fast-moving trend.

He reminded his hearers that "God has something to do with these things. Faith in God permits people to live in some relative of hope in the good they do.

The speaker again brought out the community building program, and the part our youth will have in it, urging parents to relaize that the boys and girls will seek better than their parents had, and that we will have a greater citizenship than we have today. He challenged the responsibility of parents, to lay for the youth the best foundation possible, that they might take up the responsibility and do a better job than we have done. He explained the difficulties of Juvenile delinquencies, showing the small percentage of youths involved, as a prevention to this problem "we must never lose faith in our youth" in keeping them on the right road.

From an economic standpoint, "we will see things happen that have never happened before," and at this point told his hearers of the potentialities of Lake Lavon in this county which can become one of our greatest cash assets.

He emphasized the necessity of securing industry, explaining steps in securing plants. A foundation, good highways within 35-miles from a metropolitan center, plenty of labor, good schools, churches, and numerous other assets are available here, and the Mayor urged the citizenship to get behind our leaders and "go after industry." In closing he said "roll up your sleeves, go to work and you can build any kind of town you want."

The banquet came to a close as the reins of office were turned over to President Turrentine. He said "we hope to continue the good work that has been laid before." He praised President Eubanks for the wonderful leadership of the past year, as he presented him with the past-president's plaque.
